

Miss Edna Drummond, First Junior College Dean of Women, to Retire At End of 1954-55 School Session

Miss Edna C. Drummond is retiring at the close of the 1954-55 school year after having taught at Joplin Junior College since it was organized. The popular biology instructor came to J.J.C. as the first Dean of Women, an honor she still holds.

Born in Hillsboro, Texas, Miss Drummond spent her childhood there. After graduating from Commanche Texas High School, she moved to Arkansas before entering college.

George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tennessee, was her choice. There she majored in biology and minored in chemistry. She received her B.S. and her A.M. degrees from Peabody. Later she attended Butler University and the University of Colorado.

While in college, Miss Drummond was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, an honorary educational fraternity. After coming to Joplin, she became a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary educational fraternity for women.

Miss Drummond came to Joplin High School in 1930 from Bentonville, Arkansas, where she had been principal of that high school for a number of years. During her stay at J.H.S. she taught biology six periods a day. When Joplin Junior College was organized in 1937, she became a member of the faculty.

She and Dean H. E. Blaine organized the Student Council (Student Senate) which Miss Drummond sponsored for several years. She has served in many capacities, including the chairmanship of the faculty social committee. It was under her leadership that the traditional faculty reception for sophomores and their families was started.

Queried about her hobbies, Miss Drummond replied, "My work is my hobby." She also added that of all the subjects she teaches botany is her favorite.

Asked about her plans after retirement, Miss Drummond stated that she and her sister, Miss Mamie Drummond, who is a retired home economics teacher with whom she resides, will move to Bentonville. She commented that even though she will be retired she will still be close to school in that her house is on the block adjoining Bentonville High School. The family has a fruit farm about one and a half miles from town so she will not have any trouble occupying herself.

"I have done a lot of administrative work," Miss Drummond declared, "but I prefer actual classroom work and personal contact with the student."

From the comments made since the announcement of her retirement, Joplin Junior College will not soon forget her splendid achievement with students.

First J.J.C. Dean Sends Best Wishes For Alumni Banquet

Miss Dorothy Stone
Joplin Junior College
Joplin, Missouri

Dear Miss Stone,

I appreciated your letter very much, and was glad to hear of your plans for the Alumni banquet. It is nice that Dorothy Friend is going to be your speaker. You could not find a better one. I would like to see and hear her.

I will have to miss the banquet this year, and am extremely sorry. Mrs. Blaine and I have always enjoyed them so much and this will be the first one we have missed.

We had intended going to Joplin for a few days next week, but I had another little upset last Friday, and, although I am better, the Doctor says "No, not yet."

May you have a nice banquet and may God bless each member of the Alumni Association and Miss Drummond who is retiring this year. She has been a wonderful teacher, and, as Dean of Women, she helped start the Junior College.

Sincerely,
H. E. Blaine

Miss Dorothy Friend Will Be Main Speaker at Alumni-Student Banquet

The annual Alumni-Student banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, May 6, two weeks from today, in the Empire Room of the Connor Hotel. Miss Dorothy Friend, Joplin Junior College graduate who is an account executive with KSWM-TV, will be the speaker.

The theme of the banquet, "Life, Time and Fortune," will be carried out in the decorations by members of the Student Senate. This theme was the choice of the Alumni Association who, in co-operation with the Student Senate, sponsor the event.

Miss Friend, a member of the second graduating class of J.J.C., left here in 1940 with an Associate in Arts degree. While here she participated in three performances put on by the dramatic department. Her first year, 1938, she was in the production "Our Town", directed by Bob Cunningham, and the following year in "Stage Door" and "The Importance of Being Earnest," directed by Jetta Carleton.

Although dramatics was Miss Friend's greatest interest, her activities were not limited to that field. She was editor of the Crossroads, a member of the Beta Beta Beta sorority and president of the Y.W.C.A. luncheon club.

After graduating from J.J.C., Miss Friend continued her work in dramatics at the University of Missouri where she received a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master of Arts degree. As a result of her work at Missouri University, she was offered the position of assistant director of forensics and speech instructor at the University.

From Missouri University she went to the University of Oklahoma where she advanced her position from assistant to director of forensics.

Miss Friend left Norman and the field of teaching to enter her present profession, programming. She began as program director at a National Broadcasting Company radio affiliate station in South Carolina and then worked in television as woman's program director at KOTV at Tulsa where she remained until March, 1954.

At that time she returned to the University of Missouri to direct a series of educational television programs for children over the University station, KOMU-TV.

Upon completion of the series she came back to Joplin and KSWM-TV where she is presently employed as an account executive in the sales department.

Officers of the 1954-1955 Alumni Association are Dr. James E. Stephens, president; Mrs. Charles Dymott, secretary and

Miss Friend Keeps Up With College News

A Bright Future For J.J.C.

Joplin citizens recently approved the erection of a new $2,050,000 high school by an overwhelming majority. This action vitally affects the future of Joplin Junior College. Due to the far-sighted voters who realize the need for a well-staffed, well-equipped Junior College in this growing community, Joplin Junior College will occupy the present high school building.

The future looks very bright. Enrollment is on the increase at Joplin Junior College. This year's enrollment was 34 per cent higher than last year's. Predictions are that in the next two years, J.J.C.'s enrollment will reach 700.

Although, as present students of Joplin Junior College, we will not enjoy the advantages of a larger building and the better facilities, we would like to join the Alumni in saying; "Thank you, Joplin, for giving those who desire an education the chance to obtain it. We who have studied here, along with future students, will repay you by using our knowledge to work toward a better, more peaceful, and more prosperous district, state, and nation."

Dr. Samuel Brownell, United States Commissioner of Education at Washington, D.C. delivered the address, "Foreign Language Teaching and the Office of Education."

Feminine Tactics

The up-to-date American coed has a difficult task of concealing the showy part of her intelligence for the benefit of the unsuspecting boy.

The purpose is strikingly obvious to the delicate mind, although the pretentious species of the masculine gender is more often than not in a baffled state of perplexed bewilderment as he attempts to solve the problem of advocating the "poor-dumb-little-me" type of girl.

It's not that he minds this bewilderment—he loves it! The large majority of American college men like to feel big, brainy, and especially brainy.

In order to make boys feel brainy, however, it is necessary to stay one jump ahead of them in a quiet and unobtrusive manner. It is necessary for the dainty gender to appear slightly "in the know" by asking sensible questions and showing blank confusion and awe when the question is simply answered. The point which the feminine coed has to make is a point of astonishment and amazement. This point is precisely intelligent unintelligence.

Since it is a known fact that in the springtime a college man's fancy turns not only to sail boats and tennis but also to dainty helpless little coeds; it stands to reason that the important thing for the girl to remember is to conceal modestly the knowledge she gained during first semester. Try it sometime, Miss Efficiency Plus. The results are as beneficial as they are amazing.

'Glass Menagerie' Set for May 13-14

"The Glass Menagerie," College Theatre production for this spring, will be presented May 13 and 14 in the College auditorium.

The play, written by Tennessee Williams, a foremost American playwright, centers around the predicaments of the Wingfield family in securing a boy friend for the daughter Laura. Laura, played by Evalyn Grant, is a crippled girl who has had the misfortune of being unsuccessful in everything, especially at snaring a boy friend. A touch of humor is added by the schemes devised by her mother, played by Nancy Nearing, and her brother, played by Bill Nickels, to bring a gentleman caller, Ed Hardin, into the home.

"Glass Menagerie" was popular on Broadway and is different from the conventional play in that one of the characters is also the narrator of the play.

Joe Sullens Discusses Profession With Prospective Newspapermen

Joe Sullens, a graduate of Joplin Junior College and of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, discussed "Requirements of Journalism Schools and the Possibilities for Employment in the Field" before thirty interested students at 10:00 a.m. April 1, in Room 308.

Sullens began his informal talk with a prediction that it will not be long until prospective journalists will be required to have five years of college before entering the field, because "The public is on its way toward recognizing journalism as a profession."

The 1950 J. C. graduate was quick to point out that the journalistic field encompasses several other fields, namely, basic journalism, advertising, public relations, magazine writing, editing and publishing, industrial publications, and radio and television. He emphasized, however, that various sequences, or divisions, are common to all publications. Of the overlapping sequences in which a student may major, Sullens listed seven: basic news, news editorial, special writing, photography, weekly and small daily, newspaper management, and agricultural journalism.

Illustrating his talk with numerous publications, the speaker spent considerable time discussing the deskbook. "Each paper has its own style, usually much different from that taught in the English classroom," the newsman declared.

Journalism students who did not have an eleven o'clock class spent a coffee hour in Blaine Hall asking Sullens many questions.

Next week Mr. Sullens will go to Columbia to appear on one of the Journalism Week programs. He will represent the news sequence in a group of University graduates who are to orientate trainees.

Sullens is employed by the Joplin Globe.

Hillosopher's Corner

By Jackie Cox

Easter vacation in hillosopher's corner was quite an affair. Some people went on trips and left our little corner rather quiet. Those that were left had a rather normal weekend with one exception. There was an Easter egg hunt for the kids. Myself, I didn't want to hunt Easter eggs (This I've outgrown) so I took up my line and pole and went to the old fishing hole.

As usual, fishing was very poor. After a day of fruitless effort, my bait was thrown away and I went home empty handed. Next day was another story. I found the way to go home with something for food. It was simple. I went to the store and bought shrimp for bait. I didn't catch any fish so I came home and ate my bait.

Fishy, Fishy, in the brook,
I can't catch you with a hook;
You just stay there while you can,
While I fry shrimp bait in a pan.

A MODERN POEM

Of all the wonders of the world
There's one that's best by far;
While by the fireside you lie curled,

Its magic from afar
Enchants with pleasing grace
And carries you to another place
Where everyone goes through his pace;

Its magic's where you are.

There are people who are funny,
There are people who are bad;
There are people who win money,
And there are those who are sad.
But everything I've said, you see
Is yours - - absolutely free,
It comes on every night's T.V.
And is the nation's fad.

To forecast the spring sports calls for a highly optimistic person and to reveal the results of this year's track, tennis, and golf squads calls for an even more optimistic person. Although I, like many other sports lovers, hope for the best, I have no idea as to just how Juco rates with her contenders.

Before anybody can judge the ability of any team, the team must be given a chance to prove its force. Even though the tennis and golf squads have competed once this season, a person will still find difficulty in rating the teams. The results of the teams' first matches were not bad when you consider the amount of time spent on organization and practice, which has been held to a minimum by the rainy weather. Oh sure, there is room for improvement. There always is and always will be. Just remember "practice makes perfect" and "experience is the best teacher" for I'm sure the old Green and White will not be disappointed by her representatives in the sports world this spring. With the fine coaching of Dudley Stegge and Buddy Ball helping the squads, another glorious spring season is in store for Joplin Junior College.

B. L. McCrary, supervisor of St. John's laboratory, gave a lecture and demonstration on the subject of hematology to the anatomy and physiology class of Joplin Junior college on April 13. The demonstration included typing of blood, cell counts, and RH determination.

According to Miss Edna Drummond, instructor of the class, "All were exceedingly interesting and instructive."
